Justin joined Woods Fuller, a Sioux Falls law firm in 2006 and focuses his practice on litigation, with focus on trusts and estates, commercial, and workers' compensation. He also acts as a government relations specialist and lobbyist, spending the South Dakota legislative session lobbying on behalf of firm clients.

Justin completed the Leadership Sioux Falls program and serves on the Issues Management Council for the Greater Sioux Falls Chamber of Commerce. He serves as the Chair of the Sioux Falls Charter Revision Commission. Justin has served in various roles in the community, including on the Board of Directors for Boy Scouts of America Sioux Council, Volunteers of America, and St. Francis House, and he is the Past President of the Second Circuit Bar Association and past member of the Board of Directors for the Second Circuit Bar Association. Justin also currently serves as County Committeeman for the Central Committee for the Lincoln County Republican Party and as a Lincoln County Precinct Committeeman. Additionally, Justin is a member of the Knights of Columbus and the Federalist Society.

Having traveled much as a child, Justin is glad he, his wife, and their four children have settled in South Dakota. Beyond travel, being the son of an army officer also created a life-long interest in politics and government. He loves being part of the Woods Fuller team, and working with "some of the most experienced and accomplished professionals in the State of South Dakota."
